CHILD WELFARE ACT 2009

An Act to make provision for the welfare of children and young people, to repeal the Child Welfare Act 1937 and the Child Welfare Agreement Act 1941, and for matters connected therewith.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislative Assembly as follows —

Chapter 1 Preliminary

Part 1.1 Introductory

1 Short title

This Act may be referred to as the Child Welfare Act 2009.

2 Commencement

- (1) This Part 1.1, Part 2.1, sections 195, 196, 197, and the dictionary commence on the day on which notification of assent to this Act is published in the Gazette.
- (2) The remaining provisions of this Act commence on a day or days to be fixed by the Administrator by notice in the Gazette or on the day that is the day following the expiration of 90 days after the date of commencement of this Part 1.1 which ever first occurs.

Part 1.2 Interpretation

3 Dictionary and Notes

- (1) The dictionary at the end of this Act is part of this Act.

Note 1 The dictionary at the end of this Act defines certain terms used in this Act, and includes references (signpost definitions) to other terms defined elsewhere.

For example, the signpost definition 'dangerous drug—see the Dangerous Drugs Act 1927 s. 3(1),' means that the term 'dangerous drug' is defined in that subsection and the definition applies to this Act.

Note 2 A definition in the dictionary (including a signpost definition) applies to the entire Act unless the definition, or another provision of the Act, provides otherwise or the contrary intention otherwise appears.

- (2) A note included in this Act is explanatory and is not part of this Act.

4 Orders in favour of a person

- (1) An order made in relation to a child or young person is an order in favour of a person if—
- (a) for an order in relation to an aspect of parental responsibility—the person is given that aspect of parental responsibility under the order; or
 - (b) for an order for reparation or compensation—the order requires the child or young person to make reparation or pay compensation to the person; or
 - (c) for a contact order—the order allows the person to have contact with the child or young person; or
 - (d) for a residence order—the order requires the child or young person to live with the person.

- (2) In this section:

order means an order made by the court or another court, whether under this Act or another law.

5 Meaning of carer

- (1) In this Act:

carer, for a child or young person, includes a person who provides regular and substantial care for the child or young person.

- (2) A person is not a carer—

- (a) only because the person provides care for a child or young person at a child-care centre or under a family day care scheme; or
- (b) if the person provides care on a casual basis and is not a relative of the child or young person being cared for.

- (3) In this section:

care includes foster care, respite care and crisis care.

Part 1.3 Application of the Act

6 Application of Act generally

This Act applies to children and young people.

7 Who is a child?

For this Act, a child is a person who is under 12 years old.

8 Who is a young person?

For this Act, a young person is a person who is 12 years old or older, but not yet 18 years old.

Note: Adult is defined in the dictionary.

9 Children and young people to whom Act applies

The functions under this Act may be exercised in relation to children and young people—

- (a) who ordinarily live in Norfolk Island; or
- (b) who do not ordinarily live in Norfolk Island, but who are present in Norfolk Island; or
- (c) who are subject to an event or circumstances happening in Norfolk Island giving rise to a report under section 40 (Voluntary reporting) or section 41 (Mandatory reporting).

Chapter 2 General objects, principles and parental responsibility

Part 2.1 General objects

10 Objects

The objects of this Act include—

- (a) to provide for and promote the care, protection and wellbeing of children and young people in a way that recognises their right to grow in a safe and stable environment and that takes into account the responsibilities of parents and others for them; and
- (b) to recognise that children and young people have the right to be protected from abuse and neglect and that their protection is the responsibility of parents and families with community and government support; and
- (c) to ensure that children and young people are provided with a safe and nurturing environment by organisations and people who, directly or indirectly, provide care and protection for them; and
- (d) to ensure that services provided by or for government for the care and protection of children and young people foster their health, education, developmental needs, spirituality, self-respect, self-reliance and dignity; and
- (e) to recognise that the support of children and young persons, and the provision of positive opportunities to allow them to become valuable community members, is the responsibility of parents and families with community and government support; and
- (f) to prevent abuse and neglect of children and young people through the provision of appropriate assistance to parents and others who have responsibility for children and young people.

Part 2.2 Principles applying to the Act

11 Application of principles

In making a decision or taking action under this Act in relation to a child or young person the general principles in section 12 (including the best interests principle as explained in section 13) are to be applied; and

12 General principles

- (1) In making a decision or taking action under this Act in relation to a child or young person, the general principles to be applied by a person are as follows:
 - (a) the best interests of the child or young person should be the paramount consideration (the best interests principle);
 - (b) the primary responsibility for providing care and protection for the child or young person should lie with his or her parents and other family members;
 - (c) high priority should be given to supporting family members, in cooperation with them, to care for and protect the child or young person, including when the child or young person is subject to an order under this Act or a voluntary care agreement;
 - (d) if the child or young person is in need of care and protection and family members are unwilling or unable to provide the child or young person with adequate care and protection (whether temporarily or permanently)—it is the responsibility of government to share or take over their responsibility;
 - (e) if intervention by government in the life of the child or young person (and his or her family) is appropriate—the intervention should be the least intrusive consistent with the best interests of the child or young person;
 - (f) if removal of the child or young person from his or her existing situation is necessary or desirable in his or her best interests—consideration should be given, before any other placement option is considered, to the child or young person living or being placed with a family member or a person regarded by the child or young person as a family member;
 - (g) if the child or young person does not live with his or her family because of the operation of this Act—contact with people who are significant in his or her life should be encouraged;
 - (h) the education, training or lawful employment of the child or young person should be encouraged and continued without unnecessary interruption;
 - (j) the child's or young person's sense of racial, ethnic, religious, individual or cultural identity should be preserved and enhanced and the decision or action should be consistent with his or her racial or ethnic traditions and religious, cultural and individual values.
 - (k) a child or young person should not be interviewed —
 - (i) unless the child or young person is the subject of a report made under section 40 or 41;
 - (ii) unless the child or young person consents to the interview;

- (iii) unless a person having parental responsibility for the child or young person has been notified of the interview and been given the opportunity to attend;
 - (iv) without the support and presence at the interview of an adult person chosen by the child or young person;
 - (m) in default of an adult person chosen by the child or young person, then an interview may proceed with the support and presence at the interview of an adult person chosen by the child welfare officer.
- (2) In making a decision under this Act about a child or young person, the following general principles are also to be applied:
- (a) the child or young person, and anyone else involved in making decisions about the child or young person, should be given sufficient information about the decision-making process, in language and a way that they can understand, to allow them to take part fully in the process;
 - (b) if the child or young person can form and express views about his or her wellbeing—those views should be sought and considered, taking into account his or her age and maturity;
 - (c) anyone else involved in making decisions about the child or young person should be given the opportunity to give his or her views about the wellbeing of the child or young person and those views should be considered;
 - (d) the decision-maker should make a decision promptly—
 - (i) having regard to the degree of urgency of the particular case and the child's or young person's developmental needs; and
 - (ii) having regard to the principle that a delay in the decision-making process is likely to prejudice the wellbeing of the child or young person;
 - (e) the decision-maker should also have regard to the principle that it is important for a child or young person to have settled and permanent living arrangements.
- (3) In addition, if the decision-maker is a court considering whether to make an order under this Act in relation to the child or young person, the court should apply the general principle that an order under this Act should be made by a court in relation to a child or young person only if the court considers that making the order would be better for the child or young person than making no order at all.

13 How to apply the best interests principle

- (1) In making a decision or taking action under this Act in relation to a child or young person, a person applies the best interests principle if the person takes into account the following matters so far as they are relevant:
- (a) the need to protect the child or young person from harm;
 - (b) if the child or young person has been abused or neglected—the importance of responding to his or her needs;
 - (c) the capacity of each parent, or anyone else, to provide for his or her needs;

- (d) the wishes stated by the child or young person and the factors (for example, his or her maturity or level of understanding) that the person considers are relevant to the weight that should be given to the child's or young person's wishes;
 - (e) the nature of his or her relationship with each parent and with anyone else who is significant in his or her life;
 - (f) the attitude to the child or young person, and to parental responsibilities, demonstrated by each parent;
 - (g) the importance of continuity in the child's or young person's care and the likely effect on the child or young person of disruption of that continuity, including separation from—
 - (i) a parent or anyone else with parental responsibility for the child or young person; or
 - (ii) a sibling or other family member; or
 - (iii) a carer or anyone else (including a child or young person) with whom the child or young person is, or has recently been, living; or
 - (iv) anyone else who is significant in his or her life;
 - (h) the practicalities of the child or young person maintaining contact with his or her parents, siblings and other family members and anyone else who is significant in his or her life;
 - (j) the age, maturity, sex and background of the child or young person.
- (2) Subsection (1) does not limit the matters that the person may take into account.
- (3) Despite subsection (1) a person (including the Children's court or a child welfare officer) must not give weight to the wishes of a child or young person where those wishes require overriding any desire of or action by the person having parental responsibility to reasonably supervise and/or restrict the activities of the child or young person for the purpose of limiting their ability to procure or use drugs, or alcohol or partake in sexual activity or other activities that the parent or carer reasonably believe are contrary to the mental and/or physical wellbeing or best interests of the child or young person.

Part 2.3 Parental responsibility

14 Meaning of court order for Part 2.3

In this part:

court order means an order made by the court or another court, whether under this Act or another law.

15 What is parental responsibility?

- (1) In this Act:

parental responsibility, for a child or young person, means all the duties, powers and responsibilities parents ordinarily have by law in relation to their children.

Note Power includes authority (dictionary) and see also Interpretation Act 1979 s. 36.

- (2) Parental responsibility includes responsibility for the day-to-day or long-term care, welfare and development of the child or young person.

16 Who has parental responsibility?

- (1) A person has parental responsibility for a child or young person if—

- (a) the person is his or her parent; or
- (b) a court order is in force in relation to the child or young person in favour of the person; or
- (c) the person has parental responsibility for the child or young person because of section 92 (Parental responsibility following emergency action).

- (2) A person, including a carer, may exercise parental responsibility on behalf of the child welfare officer in accordance with this Act.

17 Who can exercise parental responsibility for a child or young person?

- (1) A person's parental responsibility for a child or young person may be shared or suspended by a court order or by the taking of emergency action.
- (2) If 2 or more people have parental responsibility for the child or young person, each of them may act alone in discharging the responsibility.
- (3) However, if the child welfare officer is one of the people with parental responsibility, no-one else may discharge parental responsibility for the child or young person in a way that would be incompatible with the child welfare officer's discharge of his or her responsibility.

18 Parental responsibility for day-to-day care, welfare and development

- (1) A person with parental responsibility for the day-to-day care, welfare and development of a child or young person has responsibility to make decisions about the following matters for the child or young person:
 - (a) arrangements for, or directions about, his or her care, including, for example, personal appearance or grooming;
 - (b) arrangements for temporary care by someone else (whether the person is in Norfolk Island or elsewhere);
 - (c) arrangements (including admission to hospital) for assessing his or her physical or mental wellbeing;
 - (d) the people with whom the child or young person may, or may not, have contact;

- (e) day-to-day issues about his or her health, safety, education, training or employment.
- (2) If the person makes arrangements for assessing the physical or mental wellbeing of the child or young person, subject to an order of any court to the contrary, the person is entitled to any report of the assessment.
- (3) Also, if the person makes a decision about something covered by subsection (1) (d) or (e), the person is responsible for the arrangements to give effect to the decision.
- (4) This section does not limit the matters for which the person has responsibility to make decisions for the child or young person, but is subject to any court order.

19 Parental responsibility for long-term care, welfare and development

- (1) A person with parental responsibility for the long-term care, welfare and development of a child or young person is responsible for making decisions about the following matters for the child or young person:
 - (a) the administration, management or control of his or her property;
 - (b) his or her religion and his or her observance of racial, ethnic, religious or cultural traditions;
 - (c) consent to medical treatment (except as expressly dealt with in this Act);
 - (d) the issue of a passport (or opposing the issue of a passport) for the child or young person;
 - (e) long-term issues about his or her education, training or employment;
 - (f) an aspect of day-to-day parental responsibility that does not belong to someone else.
- (2) Subsection (1) is subject to any court order.
- (3) Without limiting the scope of subsection (2), the court may order that a person (including the child welfare officer) with parental responsibility for a child or young person must, if practicable, consult others with parental responsibility for the child or young person before exercising his or her responsibility.
- (4) However, the court may not make such an order if the person has parental responsibility under an enduring parental responsibility order.

Chapter 3 Proceedings under Act generally

20 Entitlement to take part

A child or young person has a right to take part in a proceeding under this Act in relation to the child or young person.

21 General representation of child or young person

- (1) In a proceeding under chapter 5 (Children and young people in need of care and protection) in relation to a child or young person—
 - (a) the child or young person may be represented by a lawyer or litigation representative, or both; and

- (b) a representative of the child or young person must ensure that views or wishes stated by the child or young person are put to the court; and

52 Action on expiration or termination

- (1) If a voluntary care agreement in relation to a child or young person expires or is ended, the child welfare officer—
 - (a) must return the child or young person to a former caregiver or other person as agreed between the parties to the voluntary care agreement; and
 - (b) has no parental responsibility for the child or young person once he or she is returned.
- (2) However, the child welfare officer is not required to return a child or young person if—
 - (a) emergency action is being taken in relation to the child or young person; or
 - (b) the child welfare officer has made an application to the court seeking parental responsibility for the child or young person.
- (3) Nothing in this section allows the child welfare officer to keep parental responsibility for the child or young person if the court refuses the application for parental responsibility.

53 Parental contributions

If the child welfare officer agrees with a person with parental responsibility for a child or young person that—

- (a) the child welfare officer exercise parental responsibility for the child or young person; and
- (b) the person with parental responsibility pay an amount by way of contribution to the cost of the care of the child or young person;

the amount by way of contribution—

- (c) may not be more than the amount paid by the Administration in relation to the care of the child or young person; and
- (d) is a debt due and payable to the Administration.

Division 5.2.2 Appraisal and assessment

54 Child protection appraisals

- (1) If the child welfare officer reasonably suspects that a child or young person is in need of care and protection, the child welfare officer may make an appraisal of the circumstances of the child or young person.

 - (c) ask anyone to give information to the child welfare officer; and
 - (d) make inquiries about the child or young person or anyone else; and
 - (e) arrange for a special assessment to be made of the child or young person or anyone else.
- (3) In conducting the child protection appraisal, the child welfare officer must seek the cooperation of anyone with parental responsibility for the child or young person, if it is practicable to do so.
- (4) The child welfare officer may ask the child or young person or other person who is being appraised or assessed to—
 - (a) attend at the place and time stated for the appraisal or assessment; and
 - (b) comply with any arrangement made by the child welfare officer for the purpose of the appraisal or assessment.

55 Special assessment

A special assessment of a person may include the following:

- (a) an examination, a test or a treatment of a physical, medical or dental nature on the person, other than by way of surgery;
- (b) the conducting of a detailed social assessment of the person by a social worker, psychologist or other suitably qualified person;

 - (ii) to relieve significant pain; or
 - (iii) as part of the management or setting of broken or dislocated bones;
- (g) if authorised by a court order—other surgery;

but does not include a prescribed assessment.

56 Restrictions on special assessment of children and young people

- (1) An assessor may not undertake a special assessment of a child or young person if—
 - (a) the assessor reasonably believes that the child or young person has the maturity to make a reasoned decision about whether to consent to the assessment; and
 - (b) the child or young person refuses to consent to the assessment.
- (2) If a proposed special assessment of a child or young person involves—
 - (a) penetration of a body cavity other than an ear, the nose or the mouth; or
 - (b) penetration of the skin, including by way of injection;the assessment may not be undertaken unless a person with parental responsibility consents to the assessment.
- (3) A special assessment of a child or young person for whom the child welfare officer has parental responsibility may not be undertaken unless the child welfare officer consents to the assessment.
- (4) Nothing in this section prevents a special assessment of a child or young person from taking place without the relevant consent if the assessment—
 - (a) is authorised by an assessment order or other order of a court; or
 - (b) takes place primarily—
 - (i) for the purpose of saving the person's life or preventing serious damage to his or her health; or
 - (ii) to relieve significant pain; or
 - (iii) as part of the management or setting of broken or dislocated bones.

57 Assistance with assessment

- (1) If the child welfare officer considers it necessary or desirable, he or she may get the assistance of the chief police officer in carrying out a child protection appraisal or a special assessment.
- (2) The chief police officer must give assistance to the child welfare officer by assigning police officers to assist the child welfare officer as allowed by this section.

 - (c) take photographs or audio or video recordings, or make sketches, of anything relevant to the assessment;
 - (d) require a person who may be in a position to provide information relevant to the assessment to answer a question to the best of that person's knowledge, information or belief.

Note: The Evidence Act 2004, Part 3.10 Division 1, deals with the application of client legal privilege.

- (4) A police officer assisting the child welfare officer may exercise the powers stated in subsection (3) even if the police officer has not got a warrant, if the police officer reasonably believes that the delay that would follow as a result of getting a warrant would prejudice the assessment or the safety of a child or young person.
- (5) A police officer assisting the child welfare officer may be accompanied by such other police officers or authorised people while exercising powers under this section as are reasonable or necessary.
- (6) A person must not, without reasonable excuse, contravene a requirement made under subsection (3)(d).
Maximum penalty: 50 penalty units.
- (7) A person who is required to answer a question under this section does not incur liability in doing so if the person acts in good faith.

58 Report

If a person assesses a child or young person or other person in accordance with this Division, the assessor must, unless the court orders otherwise, provide a written report on the assessment to the child welfare officer as soon as practicable after its completion.

Part 5.3 Care and protection orders and emergency action

Division 5.3.1 General

59 Definitions for chapter 5

In this chapter:

care and protection application means an application for a care and protection order.

care and protection order means an order under this chapter for or in relation to the care and protection of a child or young person.

final care and protection order means an order under Division 5.3.7 (Final care and protection orders) (other than a protection order or interim order), or a contact order, residence order or therapeutic protection order made as a final care and protection order.

final protection order—see the Domestic Violence Act 1995, section 8.

interim protection order—see the Domestic Violence Act 1995, section 14.

residence order means an order under section 75.

short care and protection order means an assessment order or a contact order, residence order, therapeutic protection order or specific issues order made in accordance with Division 5.3.2 (Short care and protection orders).

specific issues order means an order under section 114.

therapeutic protection order means an order under section 103.

60 Basis for orders

- (1) Subject to section 61, a person may apply for an order under this chapter in relation to a child or young person if he or she reasonably believes that the child or young person is in need of care and protection.
- (2) Also, the child welfare officer may apply for an order under Division 5.3.3 (Assessment orders) if he or she reasonably suspects that a child or young person may be in need of care and protection.

61 Applications by other people

- (1) If the child welfare officer has not made a care and protection application in relation to a child or young person, a person may, after consultation with the child welfare officer, seek the leave of the court to make an application in relation to the child or young person.
- (2) The court must hear the person and the child welfare officer and may make an order granting leave to the person to make the application.
- (3) If an application is made with the court's leave, a copy of it must be served on the child welfare officer who may appear and be heard in the proceeding.

62 Burden of proof

In a proceeding under this part, a fact is proved if it is proved on the balance of probabilities.

63 Information not required to be disclosed

A person is not required, in relation to a care and protection order—

- (a) to provide information that is privileged on the ground of legal professional privilege; or
- (b) to provide information, or answer a question, if to do so would incriminate, or tend to incriminate, the person.

64 Orders in relation to third parties

- (1) The court may not make a care and protection order that imposes an obligation on a person unless the person—
 - (a) consents to the making of the order; or
 - (b) has had an opportunity to be heard in relation to the proposed order.
- (2) The court gives a person an opportunity to be heard in relation to a proposed order if the court has caused to be served on the person a written notice directing his or her attendance at the proceeding to be heard in relation to the proposed making of an order, regardless of whether the person attends the proceeding.

- (3) Despite subsection (1), the court may make a care and protection order if the person on whom the obligation is proposed to be imposed cannot, after reasonable inquiry, be found.

65 Contents of care and protection applications

A care and protection application must specify the particular care and protection order sought and the ground on which it is sought.

66 Cross-applications for care and protection orders

- (1) A party to a proceeding on a care and protection application who seeks—
 - (a) an order in terms different from that applied for; or
 - (b) a different order from that applied for;should make a cross-application.
- (2) A cross-application on a care and protection application may only be made by a party to the proceeding with leave of the court.
- (3) No-one may cross apply for a therapeutic protection order or an assessment order for a child protection appraisal.
- (4) A cross-application must specify the particular care and protection order sought and the grounds on which it is sought.

67 Restriction on leave to cross apply

The court may not grant leave to cross apply unless satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the child or young person to whom the order sought would relate would be in need of care and protection if an order was not made.

68 Interim care and protection orders

- (1) The court may make an interim care and protection order in relation to a child or young person after a care and protection application is made and before the application is finally decided if satisfied that the child welfare officer reasonably believes that the child or young person is in need of care and protection or would be in need of care and protection if the order was not made.
- (2) However, the court may not make an interim assessment order.
- (3) If making an interim care and protection order, the court may make any other care and protection order that it considers appropriate for the care and protection of the child or young person.

69 Court order not limited by terms of care and protection application

The making of an application for a particular care and protection order of the court does not prevent the court from making a different care and protection order in addition to, or in substitution for, the order applied for.

70 When court may make interim protection order

- (1) The court may make an interim protection order in relation to a child or young person at any time on an application (the care and protection application) for a care and protection order in relation to the child or young person—

- (a) on its own initiative, or further application by a party to the care and protection application ; and
- (b) if the court is satisfied that it is necessary to make the interim protection order to ensure the safety of the child or young person until the care and protection application is decided.

Note The grounds for making an interim protection order are intended to mirror the grounds mentioned in the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

- (2) To remove doubt, the court may not make an interim protection order that the court of Petty Sessions could not make on an application for a final protection order made in accordance with the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

Example: The court could not make an interim protection order for a period longer than that allowed for interim protection orders under the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

71 When court may make final protection order

- (1) The court may make a final protection order in relation to a child or young person on an application (the care and protection application) for a care and protection order in relation to the child or young person—
 - (a) on its own initiative, or on further application by a party to the care and protection application; and
 - (b) if the person against whom the final protection order is proposed to be made—
 - (i) has engaged in domestic violence in relation to the child or young person; or
 - (ii) has engaged in personal violence towards the child or young person and may engage in personal violence towards the child or young person during the time the order is proposed to be made if the order is not made.

Note The grounds for making a final protection order are intended to mirror the grounds mentioned in the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

- (2) To remove doubt, the court may not make a final protection order that the court of Petty Sessions could not make on an application for a final protection order made in accordance with the Domestic Violence Act 1995.
- (3) In this section:
domestic violence—see the Domestic Violence Act 1995, section 3.

72 Can someone apply for protection order if no care and protection proceedings?

- (1) This section applies if—
 - (a) someone wants to apply for a protection order in relation to a child or young person; and
 - (b) no application for a final care and protection order has been made in relation to the child or young person.

Note A final care and protection order does not include a protection order (see s 59, definition of final care and protection order).

- (2) The person may not apply for a protection order under this Act.

- (3) To remove doubt, this section does not stop the person from applying for a protection order under the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

73 What is effect of making protection order under this Act?

- (1) A protection order made under this Act is taken to have been made under the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

Examples of consequences of protection order being taken to have been made under Domestic Violence Act 1995 —

- 1 The protection order can be amended (including by extension) or revoked under that Act.
- 2 The provisions about consent orders under that Act apply to the amendment (including by extension) or revocation of the protection order.
- 3 The provisions dealing with the end of protection orders under that Act apply to the order.

Note: An example is part of the Act, is not exhaustive and may extend, but does not limit, the meaning of the provision in which it appears.

- (2) The making of the protection order on an application for a care and protection order does not affect the validity of the protection order.
- (3) In applying the Domestic Violence Act 1995 to an interim protection order made under this Act—
- (a) a reference in that Act to a final order is taken to be a reference to a final care and protection order; and
 - (b) a reference in that Act to the application or proceeding is taken to be a reference to the application or proceeding under this Act in relation to which the interim protection order was made.

Example for paragraph (a)

The Domestic Violence Act 1995, section 20, provides that an interim order ends in certain circumstances when the final order is made. Applying paragraph (a), the interim protection order ends when the final care and protection order is made in those circumstances.

74 Contact orders

- (1) This section applies to a child or young person in relation to whom—
- (a) another order under this chapter is being sought or is in force; or
 - (b) a proceeding is under way under this chapter that may lead to the making of an order that has the effect of separating the child or young person from a significant person in his or her life.
- (2) The court may, on its own initiative, or on application by a person, make an order allowing contact between a child or young person to whom this section applies and someone else.
- (3) If a person applies for a contact order in relation to a child or young person—
- (a) if the person has parental responsibility for the child or young person or is his or her sibling—there is a rebuttable presumption that it is in the best interests of the child or young person to have contact with the person; or
 - (b) in any other case—the person has the burden of proving that contact between him or her and the child or young person is in the best interests of the child or young person.
- (4) A sibling of a child or young person in relation to whom a contact order is sought does not need the leave of the court to be joined as a party to the proceeding on the application.

- (5) An order stating that there be no contact between a child or young person and someone else is a specific issues order, not a contact order.

75 Residence orders

- (1) This section applies to a child or young person in relation to whom another order under this chapter is being sought or is in force.
- (2) The court may, on application or on its own initiative, make an order about the person with whom a child or young person to whom this section applies is to live if satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the child or young person would be in need of care and protection if the proposed order were not made.
- (3) If the court intends a person to have responsibility for deciding where a child or young person lives, the court must make a residence order in favour of the person.

76 Temporary absence

A person in whose favour a residence order in relation to a child or young person is in force may permit the child or young person to be temporarily absent from the place where he or she is directed to live under the order.

77 Supervision order

- (1) While a child or young person is subject to a supervision order under section 114 or 123, the supervisor may meet and talk with the child or young person alone or otherwise.
- (2) Without limiting what may be included in a supervision order under this chapter, a supervision order in relation to a child or young person may—
 - (a) require—
 - (i) the child or young person; or
 - (ii) a person with parental responsibility for the child or young person; or
 - (iii) both the child or young person and a person with parental responsibility for the child or young person;to report to the supervisor at a place and at intervals stated by the supervisor; and
 - (b) require—
 - (i) the child or young person; or
 - (ii) a person with parental responsibility for the child or young person; or
 - (iii) both a child or young person and a person with parental responsibility for the child or young person;to take part in discussions with the supervisor in relation to the welfare of the child or young person, in particular whether the child or young person should receive some form of educational, vocational or recreational activity or other activity, having as its object the welfare of the child or young person.

78 Failure to comply with care and protection orders

- (1) A person must not contravene a short care and protection order.
Maximum penalty: 50 penalty units, imprisonment for 6 months or both.
- (2) A person must not contravene an order under this chapter directing that the person—
 - (a) not live at the same premises as a child or young person; or
 - (b) stop or refrain from living at the same premises as a child or young person.Maximum penalty: 200 penalty units, imprisonment for 2 years or both.
- (3) A person must not contravene a final care and protection order.
Maximum penalty: 100 penalty units, imprisonment for 1 year or both.
- (4) It is a defence to a prosecution under this section if the person proves that he or she had not been served with, did not know about and could not reasonably be expected to know about the care and protection order.
- (5) This section applies to a person's conduct whether within or outside Norfolk Island.

Division 5.3.2 Short care and protection orders79 Initial consideration of applications

- (1) The court must initially consider an application for—
 - (a) a short care and protection order; or
 - (b) the extension, variation or revocation of a short care and protection order; within 2 working days after the day it is filed.
- (2) The court must initially consider a cross-application on an application for a short care and protection order within 2 working days after the day the cross-application is filed.
- (3) Subject to section 80, after initially considering an application or cross-application, the court may adjourn further consideration for not longer than 7 days at a time beginning on the day after adjournment if satisfied that it is appropriate to do so given the urgency of the application.
- (4) However, an application for a therapeutic protection order must be heard in accordance with section 108 (Time for hearing and deciding applications).

80 Consideration of applications

- (1) The court must begin hearing an application for a short care and protection order (the main application) or cross-application within 14 days after the day the main application is filed.
- (2) If the court fails, for whatever reason, to begin hearing an application or cross-application in accordance with subsection (1), an interim order made before the hearing of the proceeding was last adjourned continues in force until the application or cross-application is decided.
- (3) This section does not apply to an application for a therapeutic protection order.

81 Period of effect of short care and protection orders

- (1) A short care and protection order, other than an assessment order or a therapeutic protection order, has effect for the period of not longer than 18 weeks that is stated in the order.
- (2) An assessment order has effect for the period of not longer than 4 weeks that is stated in the order.
- (3) However, an assessment order or specific issues order may be extended under section 119(1)(c)(i) for a period equal to the period of the adjournment.
- (4) A therapeutic protection order made as a short care and protection order has effect for the period of not longer than 8 weeks that is stated in the order.
- (5) The time limits in this section do not apply to a therapeutic protection order made as a final care and protection order.

82 Extension, variation or revocation of orders

- (1) A person who was a party to the proceeding in which a short care and protection order was made (the original order) or a person named in the original order may apply for an extension, variation or the revocation of the original order.
- (2) On application, the court may extend, vary or revoke the original order.
- (3) If—
 - (a) an application has been filed; and
 - (b) the court cannot hear and decide the application before the date when, but for this subsection, the order would cease to have effect;then—
 - (c) the court may adjourn the application for a period of not longer than 7 days beginning on the day after the application is adjourned; and
 - (d) despite any other provision in this Act, the order sought to be extended continues to have effect until the application is decided.
- (4) However, the court may extend or vary an order only if—
 - (a) the effect of the extension or variation does not make the total period of the order extended or varied (including any extension, whether under subsection (3)(d) or otherwise) longer than the relevant period; or
 - (b) the court is satisfied that there are exceptional circumstances that justify the extension or variation.
- (5) In subsection (4):
relevant period means—
 - (a) in relation to an assessment order or therapeutic protection order—8 weeks; or
 - (b) in any other case—18 weeks.

Division 5.3.3 Assessment orders

83 Applications for assessment orders

- (1) The child welfare officer may apply to the court for an assessment order in relation to a child or young person if the child welfare officer considers it appropriate to do so.
- (2) A person, other than the child welfare officer, may apply to the court for an assessment order in relation to a child or young person in accordance with section 83 only if the child welfare officer has not made a care and protection application in relation to the child or young person.
- (3) A person, including the child welfare officer, may make an application for an assessment order by telephone, fax or other electronic means in an urgent case.

84 Cross applications on assessment orders

On application for an assessment order, the only order for which a cross application may be made is an assessment order for a special assessment.

85 Assessment orders

- (1) In this section:

assessment means a child protection appraisal or special assessment.

- (2) On application under this part, the court may make an order authorising the making of an assessment of a person and any of the following orders:
 - (a) an order requiring a person to attend, either alone or with someone else, at a stated place and time for an assessment;
 - (b) an order requiring a person or entity to comply with arrangements made by the child welfare officer for an assessment;
 - (c) an order requiring, or authorising the child welfare officer to require, a person or entity to give the child welfare officer information about the care, welfare or development of a child or young person;
 - (d) an order requiring that something be produced to the court or given to the child welfare officer or someone else for an assessment.

- (3) The order may relate to someone other than a child or young person.

(4) If the court makes an assessment order, the court may order someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person to pay to the child welfare officer the amount by way of contribution to the cost of the assessment or appraisal of the child or young person that the court, having regard to the financial circumstances of the person, decides.

(5) If the court makes an order under subsection (4), the amount ordered to be paid is a debt due and payable to the Administration.

86 Restrictions on making assessment orders

- (1) The court may only make an assessment order if satisfied that the child welfare officer reasonably believes or reasonably suspects that the child or young person in relation to whom the order is proposed to be made is in need of care and protection or would be in need if the order were not made.

- (2) If the child welfare officer applies for an assessment order because a child or young person has refused to consent to an appraisal or assessment, the court must—
 - (a) take such steps as it considers appropriate to—
 - (i) judge the capacity of the child or young person to give consent; and
 - (ii) identify the reasons for his or her refusal to consent; and
 - (b) have regard to such capacity and reasons in making an assessment order.

87 Assistance with assessment

The child welfare officer may get assistance under section 57 in carrying out a child protection appraisal or a special assessment in accordance with an assessment order.

88 Report

If someone assesses a child or young person or other person in accordance with this Division, the assessor must provide a written report on the assessment as soon as practicable after its completion to—

- (a) each person named in the order for the purpose of receiving the report; and
- (b) if the court so orders—the court.

Maximum penalty: 5 penalty units.

89 Court may act on recommendations

The court may, on its own initiative, make an order under this part to implement a recommendation arising out of a special assessment that it could make on application by the child welfare officer.

Division 5.3.4 Emergency action

90 Taking emergency action

- (1) In this section:
place includes a hospital or place where therapeutic protection is provided.
- (2) This section applies if the child welfare officer or a police officer reasonably believes that a child or young person—
 - (a) is in immediate need of care and protection; or
 - (b) would be so in need if immediate care and protection were not provided.
- (3) If this section applies, the child welfare officer or police officer may—
 - (a) arrange for the child's or young person's care and protection either in a premises or place or by moving him or her from a place to another place; and
 - (b) for the purpose of making those arrangements, use such force (including for breaking into premises) as is reasonably necessary to safeguard the wellbeing of the child or young person.

- (4) The child welfare officer or police officer may take emergency action in relation to a child or young person even if, at the time he or she proposes to take the action, the child or young person is in the care of someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person.
- (5) The child welfare officer or police officer may use the assistance that is necessary and reasonable for the purpose of taking the emergency action.

91 Emergency action by police officer

- (1) If a police officer takes emergency action in relation to a child or young person, he or she must—
 - (a) immediately notify the child welfare officer in writing about the action taken, the reasons for taking the action and the child or young person in relation to whom the action was taken; and
 - (b) if practicable, notify each person with parental responsibility for the child or young person about the action taken; and
 - (c) deliver the child or young person to the place or person advised by the child welfare officer.
- (2) If it is not practicable to notify the child welfare officer in writing immediately, the police officer may notify the child welfare officer orally immediately and provide written notice as soon as practicable.

92 Parental responsibility following emergency action

- (1) A police officer has parental responsibility for a child or young person in relation to whom he or she has taken emergency action until the officer notifies the child welfare officer under section 91.
- (2) The child welfare officer has parental responsibility for a child or young person if—
 - (a) a police officer notifies the child welfare officer that the officer has taken emergency action in relation to the child or young person; or
 - (b) the child welfare officer takes emergency action in relation to the child or young person.
- (3) The child welfare officer may authorise a police officer to exercise parental responsibility for a child or young person on his or her behalf.
- (4) A court may order someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person to pay to the child welfare officer the amount by way of contribution to the cost of the emergency action provided by the police or child welfare officer for the child or young person that the court, having regard to the financial circumstances of the person, decides.
- (5) If the court makes an order under subsection (4), the amount ordered to be paid is a debt due and payable to the Administration.

93 Keeping and losing parental responsibility

- (1) The child welfare officer or police officer ceases to have parental responsibility for a child or young person after emergency action has been taken in relation to the child or young person if—
 - (a) the child or young person is returned to a former caregiver or person with parental responsibility; or

- (b) the court so orders.
- (2) Except as expressly provided in this Act, the child welfare officer or police officer may keep parental responsibility for the child or young person without the need for an order of the court—
 - (a) for the period of 2 working days beginning after the day the emergency action was taken; or
 - (b) if the period mentioned in paragraph (a) is interrupted by a Saturday, a Sunday and a public holiday—for the period from the day the emergency action is taken until such time as the matter can be brought before the court on the next sitting day of the court.
- (3) However, if the child welfare officer has parental responsibility for a child or young person after having been notified under section 91 (Emergency action by police officer), the period for which the child welfare officer may keep parental responsibility is the relevant period stated under subsection (2) less any period during which the police officer had parental responsibility for the child or young person.
- (4) If, at the end of the period for which the child welfare officer or police officer may keep parental responsibility—
 - (a) no order has been made in relation to the child or young person in relation to whom the emergency action was taken; and
 - (b) the child welfare officer or police officer still has parental responsibility for the child or young person;the child welfare officer or police officer must deliver the child or young person into the care of a former caregiver or someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person.
- (5) The child welfare officer or a police officer may only exercise parental responsibility for a child or young person under this section for the immediate care and protection of the child or young person.

94 Notice of emergency action

- (1) If the child welfare officer takes emergency action in relation to a child or young person or is notified that a police officer has taken emergency action, he or she must, as soon as practicable, give notice that the action has been taken to—
 - (a) each person with parental responsibility for the child or young person who has not been told about the action by the person who took the action; and
 - (b) the court.
- (2) This section applies even if the child welfare officer considers that it would not be in the best interests of the child or young person to give notice.

95 Action by child welfare officer

- (1) If the child welfare officer has parental responsibility for a child or young person under this Division, he or she may make arrangements for the care and protection of the child or young person.

- (2) The arrangements the child welfare officer may make for a child or young person include—
 - (a) arranging a child protection appraisal that includes an examination of the circumstance that led to the taking of the emergency action; and
 - (b) delivering the child or young person to a person (including someone with parental responsibility or a former caregiver).

96 Early initial consideration of care and protection application

- (1) If, before the end of the relevant period mentioned in section 93(2), the child welfare officer applies to the court for a care and protection order, the court must give initial consideration to an application on the day it is filed.
- (2) This section applies despite any other provision of this Part.

97 Contact with siblings and people with parental responsibility

- (1) If emergency action has been taken in relation to a child or young person for whom a police officer or the child welfare officer has parental responsibility, the officer or child welfare officer must allow reasonable contact between the child or young person and his or her siblings or a person with parental responsibility for the child or young person.
- (2) However the child welfare officer is not required to allow contact under this section if it would not be in the best interests of the child or young person to do so.

98 Record of action

The child welfare officer must keep a written record of any emergency action taken, including particulars of any notice given under section 91 (Emergency action by police officer).

99 Application for release of child or young person

- (1) At any time while the child welfare officer or a police officer has parental responsibility for a child or young person because of the taking of emergency action, anyone mentioned in subsection (2) may apply to the court for an order for the release of the child or young person into the care of the applicant or another named person.
- (2) For subsection (1), the following people may apply:
 - (a) the child or young person;
 - (b) someone with parental responsibility; or
 - (c) a former caregiver.
- (3) The court may not order the release of a child or young person on an application under this section unless satisfied that proper arrangements exist for the care and protection of the child or young person.

Division 5.3.5 Therapeutic protection orders

100 Effect of Division 5.3.5 on other powers of child welfare officer

- (1) Nothing in this Division prevents the child welfare officer from taking action he or she can take under the common law, this Act or another enactment.

- (2) However, as far as another law would be contrary to this Division, this Division must, so far as possible, prevail.

101 What is therapeutic protection?

Therapeutic protection is care provided by the child welfare officer for a child or young person, where the child or young person is confined to a place in a way that the child welfare officer considers appropriate to protect the child or young person from serious harm.

102 Restriction on provision of therapeutic protection

The child welfare officer may not provide therapeutic protection for a child or young person except in accordance with a therapeutic protection order.

103 Therapeutic protection orders

- (1) The court may make a therapeutic protection order in relation to a child or young person if satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that—
 - (a) the child or young person is in need of care and protection and therapeutic protection should be arranged for the child or young person; or
 - (b) the child or young person would be in need of care and protection if therapeutic protection were not provided.
- (2) If the court makes a therapeutic protection order—
 - (a) the court must include in the order any term or condition to which it is subject; and
 - (b) unless the court otherwise orders—the order has the effect of a residence order in favour of the child welfare officer and a specific issues order giving day-to-day responsibility for the care, welfare and development of the child or young person to the child welfare officer.
- (3) If the court makes a therapeutic protection order, the court may order someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person to pay to the child welfare officer the amount by way of contribution to the cost of the care or protection of the child or young person that the court, having regard to the financial circumstances of the person, decides.
- (4) If the court makes an order under subsection (3), the amount ordered to be paid is a debt due and payable to the Administration.

104 Restriction on making, varying and extending

- (1) The court may not make, vary or extend a therapeutic protection order in relation to a child or young person unless it has received from the child welfare officer—
 - (a) a schedule setting out the proposed time, date and duration of the provision of therapeutic protection for the child or young person and the type of therapeutic protection proposed to be provided; and
 - (b) in relation to an application for variation or extension—the same details about the therapeutic protection already provided.
- (2) The court may not make, vary or extend a therapeutic protection order in relation to a child or young person unless satisfied that—

- (a) the order is necessary to prevent the child or young person from behaving in a manner likely to cause physical harm to himself or herself or another child or young person; and
 - (b) a planned program is in place for the child or young person to be provided with treatment, therapy or other services that will help him or her to deal with the matter mentioned in paragraph (a); and
 - (c) the program is likely to lead to a significant improvement in the circumstances of the child or young person; and
 - (d) the person or administrative unit proposed to provide the therapeutic protection has indicated to the court a willingness and ability to allocate the resources necessary to implement the program; and
 - (e) less intrusive methods have been attempted or would be insufficient for the support of the child or young person.
- (3) However, on application for a variation of the term of a therapeutic protection order or for an extension, the court is not required to rehear the matter completely but may take into consideration a finding of fact made previously in relation to the child or young person.

105 Action by child welfare officer under therapeutic protection order

Without limiting the therapeutic protection the child welfare officer may provide under an order, he or she may do, or cause to be done, such of the following as he or she reasonably believes is in the best interests of the child or young person who is the subject of the order:

- (a) take necessary steps to ensure that the child or young person may not leave the place where therapeutic protection is provided;
- (b) use the force that is reasonably necessary to safeguard the wellbeing of the child or young person;
- (c) search the child or young person in accordance with sections 182 and 183 (about personal searches);
- (d) provide close or constant supervision for the child or young person;
- (e) restrict the child or young person from having contact with other people.

106 Restriction on cross-application

A person may only cross apply on an application for a therapeutic protection order for—

- (a) an assessment order for a special assessment; or
- (b) a specific issues order; or
- (c) a residence order.

107 Application for variation or revocation of therapeutic protection order

- (1) The following people may apply to the court for an order varying or revoking a therapeutic protection order in relation to a child or young person:
- (a) the child or young person;

- (b) anyone with parental responsibility for the child or young person;
 - (c) a former caregiver.
- (2) If an application in relation to a child or young person is served on the child welfare officer, the child welfare officer must file with the court a schedule setting out—
- (a) the time, date and duration of the provision of therapeutic protection in relation to the child or young person; and
 - (b) the type of therapeutic protection provided or to be provided.

108 Time for hearing and deciding applications

- (1) The court must hear and decide an application for a therapeutic protection order within 2 working days after the day the application is filed with the court.
- (2) However, a cross-application may be dealt with in accordance with section 79 (Initial consideration of applications).

109 Limitations on restricting contact

If, acting under a therapeutic protection order, the child welfare officer restricts a child or young person from having contact with others—

- (a) the restriction may not—
 - (i) unreasonably limit contact between the child or young person and a sibling or the child or young person and a person with parental responsibility for him or her; or
 - (iii) unreasonably restrict the child's or young person's access to open air; and
- (b) so far as it prevents the child or young person from having contact with people other than a supervisor of the child or young person—the restriction—
 - (i) may only occur under constant supervision; and
 - (ii) may not exceed a continuous period of longer than 12 hours or a period of 12 hours (whether continuous or otherwise) in any 24 hour period.

110 Separation of children and young people from offenders

A child or young person who is under therapeutic protection must not be accommodated in premises used mainly to confine people convicted of offences or remanded into custody in relation to offences.

111 Provision of schedule of therapeutic protection

On request by the Chief Executive Officer, the child welfare officer must promptly make available to him or her a written schedule setting out—

- (a) the time, date and duration of the provision of therapeutic protection in relation to a named child or young person; and
- (b) the type of therapeutic protection provided or to be provided.

112 Therapeutic protection order made as final care and protection order

A therapeutic protection order made as a final care and protection order may be made for a period of up to 8 weeks and may be varied under Division 5.3.7 (Final care and protection orders) to extend the term of the order for an additional period of up to 8 weeks each time a variation is sought.

113 Review

- (1) The Minister must every 12 months after the commencement of this chapter review the operation (the review period) of this Act in relation to therapeutic protection, to determine whether therapeutic protection is being provided in appropriate cases and appropriate ways and to evaluate the effectiveness of therapeutic protection orders.
- (2) The Minister must inform the Assembly of the terms of reference for the review.
- (3) The Minister must present a report of the review to the Legislative Assembly not later than the first sitting day after a 3 month consideration period commencing on the first day after the end of the review period.

Division 5.3.6 Specific issues orders114 Specific issues orders

- (1) On application under this Part, the court may make any specific issues order it considers appropriate in relation to a child or young person if satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the child or young person is in need of care and protection or would be in need if an order were not made.
- (2) A specific issues order is an order relating to the care and protection of a child or young person (other than an assessment order).
- (3) Without limiting subsection (2), the specific issues orders that may be made in relation to a child or young person include the following:
 - (a) an order relating to the day-to-day or long-term care, welfare or development of the child or young person;
 - (b) an order requiring or authorising the child welfare officer to require a named person or public sector agency to give the child welfare officer oral or written information relating to the care, protection, welfare or development of a child or young person;
 - (c) an order directing that a named person not live at the same premises as the child or young person (including that someone who lives in the same premises as the child or young person stop or refrain from living at those premises);
 - (d) an order directing that a party to the application, or anyone else, have no contact with the child or young person;
 - (e) an order that the child or young person submit to the jurisdiction of the mental health tribunal to allow the tribunal—
 - (i) to decide whether the child or young person is mentally dysfunctional or mentally ill; and

(ii) if the tribunal decides that the child or young person is mentally dysfunctional or mentally ill—to make recommendations to the court as to how the child or young person should be dealt with;

(f) a supervision order;

(g) an order requiring a named person to do a stated thing, refrain from doing a stated thing or observe a stated condition;

(h) such ancillary or other orders as the court thinks fit.

(4) If the court makes a specific issues order, the court may order someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person to pay to the child welfare officer the amount by way of contribution to the cost of the care or protection of the child or young person that the court, having regard to the financial circumstances of the person, decides.

(5) If the court makes an order under subsection (4), the amount ordered to be paid is a debt due and payable to the Administration.

115 Restriction on cross-application

A person may only cross apply on an application for a specific issues order for—

(a) a specific issues order; or

(b) an assessment order for a special assessment; or

(c) a residence order.

116 Notice of making, varying or extending certain specific issues orders

(1) This section applies to a specific issues order in relation to a child or young person—

(a) directing someone to stop or refrain from living in the same premises as the child or young person; or

(b) directing a named person to have no contact with the child or young person; or

(c) requiring a named person to do a stated thing, refrain from doing a stated thing or observe a stated condition.

(2) If the court makes, varies or extends an order to which this section applies, the court must cause a copy of the order, or a copy of the order as varied or extended, to be—

(a) served personally on the person directed to do a thing, cease or refrain from doing a thing or observe a condition; and

(b) served on the Chief Executive Officer; and

(c) given to—

(i) the chief police officer; and

(ii) each other person who was a party to the proceeding; and

(iii) any other person the court considers appropriate.

- (3) Despite subsection (2)(a), if it appears to the court that it is not practicable to serve a document required to be served under subsection (2) personally, the court may—
 - (a) order that the copy of the order be served by such other means as the court thinks just; or
 - (b) make an order for substituted service.
- (4) If the court is satisfied, having regard to the material before it, that it is appropriate to do so, the court may direct that a document required to be served on someone under subsection (2) be served by a police officer.
- (5) If the court gives a direction for service by a police officer, the chief police officer must, when requested to do so by the Clerk, arrange for the document to be served by a police officer.

Division 5.3.7 Final care and protection orders

117 Initial consideration of applications

- (1) The court must initially consider—
 - (a) an application for a final care and protection order; or
 - (b) an application for the variation or revocation of a final care and protection order; or
 - (c) a cross-application on an application for a final care and protection order; within 5 working days after the day the application, or cross-application, is filed.
- (2) After initially considering an application (the main application) or cross-application, the court must—
 - (a) if satisfied that no purpose would be served by an adjournment—decide the main application or cross-application; or
 - (b) in any other case—set a date to begin hearing the main application or cross-application that is not more than 10 weeks after the day the main application is filed, and adjourn the main application or cross-application.
- (3) If the court fails, for whatever reason, to begin hearing the main application or cross-application within 10 weeks after the day the main application is filed, an order or direction made in relation to the proceeding before that day continues in force until the main application or cross-application is decided.

118 Restriction on cross-application

A person may only cross apply on an application for a final care and protection order for—

- (a) an assessment order for a special assessment; or
- (b) a specific issues order; or
- (c) a residence order.

119 Before application adjourned

- (1) Before adjourning an application or cross-application under this Division, the court—
 - (a) must define the matters that are in dispute and consider the length of hearing required; and
 - (b) must make the directions necessary to facilitate the hearing; and
 - (c) if a specific issues order or assessment order is in force, may—
 - (i) extend the length of the order in accordance with section 81(3); or
 - (ii) revoke the order; and
 - (d) may order that a meeting be held to find out or resolve the issues in dispute; and
 - (e) may make one or more of the following orders (interim orders) to have effect for a stated period ending on or before the day the application or cross application is decided:
 - (i) an order giving interim parental responsibility for the child or young person to the child welfare officer or someone else;
 - (ii) a contact order;
 - (iii) an assessment order;
 - (iv) a specific issues order.
- (2) The types of directions that the court may give under subsection (1)(b) include a direction—
 - (a) setting a schedule for the filing of evidence; and
 - (b) providing a time for the making of any further direction required.
- (3) Before making an interim order, the court may require the child welfare officer to provide a care plan for the child or young person who is the subject of the hearing for the period of the adjournment.

120 Court-ordered meeting

- (1) A meeting ordered by the court under section 119(1)(d)—
 - (a) must be attended by the child welfare officer and someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person who is the subject of the proceeding; and
 - (b) may be attended by—
 - (i) a party to the proceeding; and
 - (ii) the representative of a party to the proceeding; and
 - (iii) a person who was served with the application for the care and protection order; and
 - (iv) with the leave of the court, anyone who has an interest in the proceeding.
- (2) The court must appoint someone mentioned in subsection (1) to preside over the meeting.

- (3) Evidence of anything said or done at a meeting is not admissible in the proceeding to which it relates except with—
 - (a) the consent of the parties to the proceeding; or
 - (b) the leave of the court.
- (4) The person presiding at a meeting must report the outcome of the meeting to the court.

121 Variation of interim orders

- (1) A party to the proceeding may apply to the court for the variation of an interim order.
- (2) The court must hear and decide an application for variation within 5 working days after the day the application is filed.
- (3) After hearing an application, the court must—
 - (a) vary the terms of the interim order; or
 - (b) make another order available under section 119(1)(e) in substitution for the order sought to be varied; or
 - (c) dismiss the application.
- (4) If, but for this subsection, an interim order in force on the day an application for a variation is filed would expire on a day before the hearing of the application, that order continues in force until the application is heard and decided.

122 Appeal from assessment and specific issues interim orders

If the court makes an interim order that is an assessment order or a specific issues order, the order may be appealed from as if it had been made as a short care and protection order.

123 Final care and protection orders

- (1) The court may declare a child or young person to be in need of care and protection if satisfied that a final care and protection order should be made in relation to the child or young person.
- (2) The court may not accept the admission of the parties to a proceeding that a child or young person is in need of care and protection but must satisfy itself that the child or young person is in need of care and protection.
- (3) After making a declaration, the court may make a final care and protection order if satisfied that such an order is necessary to secure—
 - (a) the care and protection of the child or young person; or
 - (b) proper arrangements in existence for the care and protection of the child or young person.
- (4) A final care and protection order in relation to a child or young person may include one or more of the following:
 - (a) an order that the child welfare officer supervise the care and protection of the child or young person in relation to matters mentioned in the order;

- (b) an order giving parental responsibility for the child or young person to the child welfare officer or someone else;
 - (c) an enduring parental responsibility order that has effect until the child or young person turns 18;
 - (d) an order that the child or young person submit to the jurisdiction of the mental health tribunal to allow the tribunal—
 - (i) to decide whether the child or young person is mentally dysfunctional or mentally ill; and
 - (ii) if the tribunal decides that the child or young person is mentally dysfunctional or mentally ill—to make recommendations to the court as to how the child or young person should be dealt with;
 - (e) any other order the court considers appropriate.
- (5) A final care and protection order has effect for a stated period or, if no period is stated, until the child or young person becomes an adult.
- (6) Subsection (5) does not apply to the following final care and protection orders:
- (a) an enduring parental responsibility order;
 - (b) a therapeutic protection order;
 - (c) an order that a child or young person submit to the jurisdiction of the mental health tribunal.
- (7) The court does not need to make a declaration that a child or young person is in need of care and protection before it may make a contact order, or a protection order, on an application for a final care and protection order.

124 Therapeutic protection order made as final care and protection order

A therapeutic protection order made as a final care and protection order must comply with section 112.

125 Parental responsibility

A final care and protection order dealing with parental responsibility for a child or young person may—

- (a) vest parental responsibility in more than one person; and
- (b) state or limit the manner in which a person may exercise his or her responsibilities for the child or young person under that order; and
- (c) state the responsibilities that someone has or does not have; and
- (d) state how someone must consult with someone else with parental responsibility before exercising an aspect of parental responsibility.

126 Restriction on making final care and protection orders

The court may not make a final care and protection order in relation to a child or young person unless it has considered a care plan prepared by the child welfare officer in relation to the child or young person.

127 What is a care plan?

- (1) A care plan for a child or young person is a written plan of the child welfare officer's proposals in relation to the care and protection of the child or young person.
- (2) The care plan may include proposals for the following:
 - (a) allocation of parental responsibility in relation to the child or young person;
 - (b) the type of placement that will be sought or provided for the child or young person if he or she is to live away from home, including any interim placement arrangements;
 - (c) whether the child welfare officer believes restoration of the child or young person to his or her parents is a realistic possibility and, if the child welfare officer believes it is, a description of the changes at the home or by the parents that the child welfare officer believes would need to occur before the child welfare officer would consider it safe for the child or young person to return to his or her parents;
 - (d) contact between the child or young person and his or her parents (and anyone else as appropriate);
 - (e) the agency with whom arrangements are to be made about the provision of care and protection, supervision or other support for the child or young person;
 - (f) services to be provided in relation to the child or young person.
- (3) Unless the court orders otherwise, the child welfare officer must serve a copy of a care plan provided for a proceeding on each other party to the proceeding.

128 Enduring parental responsibility orders

- (1) The court may make an enduring parental responsibility order in relation to a child or young person if—
 - (a) no-one with parental responsibility for the child or young person (other than under a care and protection order) has had care of him or her for a continuous period of at least 2 years, or for periods that total at least 2 years within the period of 3 years, immediately before the order is made; and
 - (b) the child or young person has been living with the person in whose favour the order is sought (the proposed carer) under a care and protection order for a continuous period of 2 years, or for periods that total at least 2 years within the period of 3 years, immediately before the order is made; and
 - (c) satisfied that—
 - (i) no-one with parental responsibility for the child or young person (other than under a care and protection order) (a previous carer) is able or willing to exercise that responsibility; or
 - (ii) it is not in the best interests of the child or young person for a previous carer to exercise parental responsibility for the child or young person; and

- (d) satisfied that the proposed carer—
 - (i) is a suitable person to have parental responsibility for the child or young person; and
 - (ii) is willing and able to assume day-to-day and long-term responsibility for the care, welfare and development of the child or young person.
- (2) An enduring parental responsibility order is—
 - (a) a residence order in favour of the proposed carer; and
 - (b) an order giving parental responsibility for the day-to-day and long-term care, welfare and development of the child or young person to the proposed carer while the order is in force.

129 Restriction on making enduring parental responsibility orders

The court may not make an enduring parental responsibility order in favour of the child welfare officer.

130 Effect of enduring parental responsibility order on others with parental responsibility

No-one may discharge parental responsibility for a child or young person in a way that would be incompatible with the discharge of parental responsibility of someone who has an enduring parental responsibility order in relation to the child or young person.

131 Financial contributions and burdens

- (1) If the court makes a final care and protection order giving parental responsibility (whether sole or shared) for a child or young person to the child welfare officer, the court may order someone with parental responsibility for the child or young person to pay to the child welfare officer the amount by way of contribution to the cost of the care of the child or young person that the court, having regard to the financial circumstances of the person, decides.
- (2) If the court makes an order under subsection (1), the amount ordered to be paid is a debt due and payable by the former caregiver to the Administration of Norfolk Island.
- (3) Unless the court orders otherwise, if the court makes a care and protection order involving a financial cost to a person, the person is responsible for the cost.
- (4) If—
 - (a) the court makes an enduring parental responsibility order; and
 - (b) immediately before the order was made the child or young person was in the care of the child welfare officer (however described);

the child welfare officer may arrange for the provision of financial or other assistance to the person in whose favour the order is made, on the terms and conditions, that the child welfare officer considers appropriate.

132 Application for variation and revocation of orders

- (1) A person may, with the leave of the court, apply to the court for the variation or revocation of a final care and protection order on the ground that—
 - (a) the child or young person is no longer in need of care and protection; or
 - (b) the order made by the court does not secure—
 - (i) the care and protection of the child or young person; or
 - (ii) proper arrangements in existence for the care and protection of the child or young person.
- (2) The court may not grant leave to someone to apply under subsection (1) on more than one occasion in a 12 month period unless satisfied that there are exceptional circumstances that justify doing so.
- (3) The court may grant leave to apply to someone who was a party to the proceeding in which the final care and protection order sought to be varied was made unless subsection (2) prevents it from doing so.
- (4) An application for a variation may specify—
 - (a) the provision sought to be varied; and
 - (b) the nature of the proposed variation.
- (5) On application under subsection (1), the court may list the application so that there is a directions hearing in relation to it within 5 working days after the day the application is filed.
- (6) At a directions hearing in relation to an application under subsection (1), the court—
 - (a) may deal with the application in the same way as it would deal with an application for a final care and protection order at a directions hearing; and
 - (b) may take any action in relation to the application that it could take if the application were an application for a final care and protection order.

133 Variation and revocation of orders

- (1) On application under section 132(1), the court may—
 - (a) if satisfied that it is in the best interests of the child or young person to do so—
 - (i) vary the order; or
 - (ii) revoke the order; or
 - (b) in any other case—dismiss the application.
- (2) The court may not vary or revoke an order under this section unless the applicant has proved to the satisfaction of the court that it is in the best interests of the child or young person to vary or revoke the order.
- (3) The orders the court may make when varying an order under subsection (1)(a)(i) include the following:
 - (a) substituting the order with another order the court may make on application for a final care and protection order;

- (b) changing the period for which the order has effect;
- (c) varying a term or condition in the order;
- (d) making an additional order that the court may make on application for a final care and protection order.

134 Continuation of existing orders

If, but for this section, a final care and protection order in force on the day an application for a variation of the order under section 132(1) is filed would expire on a day before the hearing of the application, that order continues in force until the application is heard and decided.

135 Child welfare officer to report

- (1) This section applies if, under a final care and protection order in force for a period longer than 6 months in relation to a child or young person—
 - (a) the child welfare officer has parental responsibility for the child or young person; or
 - (b) the child or young person is subject to the supervision of the child welfare officer.
- (2) The child welfare officer must give a report under this section to each of the following people:
 - (a) the child or young person;
 - (b) each person with parental responsibility for the child or young person;
 - (c) a carer caring for the child or young person;
 - (d) the court.
- (3) A report under this section must include information in relation to the following:
 - (a) the circumstances of the child or young person and the family with which he or she lives;
 - (b) the child welfare officer's performance of his or her obligations under the care and protection order;
 - (c) whether the child welfare officer considers the existing arrangements for the care and protection of the child or young person are in the best interests of the child or young person.
- (4) A report under this section in relation to a care and protection order must be given—
 - (a) if the order is in force for a period of less than 12 months—at least one month before the order expires but not earlier than 2 months before; or
 - (b) if the order is in force for a period of 12 months or more—
 - (i) at least one month before each anniversary of the making of the order while the order is in force, but not earlier than 2 months before; and
 - (ii) if the order is due to expire more than 6 months but less than 12 months after the last report was provided—at least one month before the order expires but not earlier than 2 months before.

- (5) The child welfare officer may also give a report to an interpreter, doctor or similar person if the child welfare officer considers it appropriate to do so to allow the person to bring the report to the attention of someone to whom the report must be provided.
- (6) If the child welfare officer causes a report under this section to be prepared in relation to a child or young person, the child welfare officer may, before providing the report to someone mentioned in subsection (2)(a), (b) or (c) or (5), make the minor alterations to the report to protect the privacy and confidentiality of a person named in the report that the child welfare officer considers appropriate.

136 Waiving of obligation to give report

- (1) The child welfare officer may apply to the court for an order waiving the need to comply with section 133(2) in relation to someone mentioned in section 135(2)(a), (b) or (c) if—
 - (a) the child welfare officer considers that to give the report to the person would not be in the best interests of the child or young person; or
 - (b) the person cannot be found after reasonable inquiries.
- (2) If the ground for applying is that the child welfare officer considers that to give the report to the person would not be in the best interests of the child or young person, the child welfare officer must cause a copy of the application to be served on each person to whom the report is required to be given.
- (3) On application under subsection (1), the court must order—
 - (a) if satisfied that—
 - (i) to give a copy of the report to the named person would not be in the best interests of the child or young person; or
 - (ii) reasonable inquiries have been made and the person cannot be found; that the child welfare officer is not required to give a copy of the report to the person under section 135; or

- (4) An order under subsection (3)(b) must specify whether the copy of the report is to be provided in full or in part.
- (5) If the court makes an order under subsection (3)(b), it may make such other orders in relation to the provision of the copy of the report as it considers appropriate.
- (6) An application under subsection (1) may be heard in the absence of a party.

137 Failure to give report

- (1) A person to whom a report is required to be given may apply to the court for an order requiring the child welfare officer to give a report to a person to whom a report is required to be given under section 135 if the child welfare officer has not—
 - (a) given the report in accordance with the section; and
 - (b) obtained an order waiving the requirement to give the report to the person.

- (2) If, on application, the court orders the child welfare officer to give a report, the child welfare officer must give the report in accordance with section 135 within 14 days after the day the court makes the order.
- (3) The court may extend the period of a final care and protection order so that it ends not more than one month after the day the order is made if—

 - (a) be accompanied by such authorised people and police officers as is reasonable or necessary; and

- (5) However, the child or young person is not required to be brought before the court (unless the court directs otherwise).
- (6) A child or young person taken into safe custody under this section must be placed by the person who executed the warrant—
 - (a) in the place stated in the warrant; or

 - (ii) anything said by a representative of the child or young person in relation to the child's or young person's views or wishes; or
 - (iii) anything contained in a report (whether ordered by the court or otherwise) given to the court in relation to the child's or young person's views or wishes; or
- (b) by any other means the court considers appropriate, including by the child or young person expressing his or her wishes through a statement or submission by a carer, an expert or someone else.

142 No requirement to express views or wishes

Nothing in this Part permits the court or a person to require a child or young person to express his or her views or wishes in relation to a matter.

Division 5.3.10 Procedures143 Applications and other procedures before the court

- (1) The Court of Petty Sessions Act 1960 and the forms and Regulations made under that Act apply to the commencement of proceedings and the hearing of applications and other matters under this Act.

143C What principle is to be applied in the administration of this Part?

- (2) The provisions of this section apply in addition to the provisions of sections 10 to 13.

143D Request for assistance

- (1) A parent, child or young person, or any other person may ask the child welfare officer for assistance-

 - (c) to enable the child or young person and his or her parents to have access to appropriate services.

143E Alternative dispute resolution

- (1) If the differences between a child or young person and his or her parents are so serious that it is no longer possible for the child or young person to continue living with his or her parents, the child, the young person, or a parent or the parents may request the child welfare officer to attempt to resolve those differences.
- (2) On receiving a request, the child welfare officer must seek to resolve the differences, by any form of dispute resolution the child welfare officer considers appropriate, prior to making an application to the Court for appropriate orders.

 - (b) any party may formulate an alternative parenting plan if the child welfare officer is not a party to the proceedings.

143G Application for order for alternative parenting plan

- (1) If the differences between a child or young person and his or her parents are so serious that it is no longer possible for the child or young person to continue living with his or her parents, the child or young person, a parent or the parents, or the child welfare officer may make an application to the Court for an order approving an alternative parenting plan.
- (2) An application is to be accompanied by an alternative parenting plan.
- (3) The Court must not make an order unless it is satisfied that the parents and the child or young person have been advised of the desirability of seeking legal advice concerning any proposed changes to the allocation of parental responsibility and —
 - (a) that all appropriate steps that could be taken to resolve the matter have been taken and that all other appropriate forms of dispute resolution have been exhausted, or
 - (b) that no useful purpose would be served in taking those steps or other forms of dispute resolution.
- (4) The Court may order a person who makes an application under this section to notify those persons whom the Court specifies of the making of the application.

143H Adjournment

The Court may adjourn an application for an order approving an alternative parenting plan in order that further assessment, counselling or mediation may be carried out.

143I Court orders

- (1) The Court may make such orders as it considers appropriate to give effect to a proposed alternative parenting plan or specified parts of the plan.
- (2) In considering whether to make an order with respect to a child or young person, the Court is to have regard to the following:

 - (b) the child or young person and his or her parents have been advised of the desirability of seeking legal advice concerning changes to the allocation of parental responsibility.
- (4) On registration, an alternative parenting plan has the same effect as if it had been approved by order of the Court.

Part 2 — Homelessness143K Homelessness of children

143L Homelessness of young persons

Any person may, with the consent of the young person, report the homelessness of a young person to the child welfare officer.

A person who provides residential accommodation for another person who the person has reasonable grounds to suspect -

- (b) is living away from home without parental permission, must, as soon as practicable, inform the child welfare officer of the child's whereabouts.

Note: (a) The police will notify the child welfare officer of the details of children who have been reported to the police as missing. If the child welfare officer becomes aware that a child reported as missing is safe, the child welfare officer is required to advise the police that the child is safe but not of the whereabouts of the child.

- (b) The purpose of this provision is to avoid wasting resources in having the police search for missing children whose whereabouts are known to the child welfare officer.
- (c) The parents should be informed that the child is safe, but nothing in this section requires any person to reveal the whereabouts of the child to a person other than the child welfare officer.

- (3) On being notified, the child welfare officer must notify—
 - (a) the child or young person concerned; and
 - (b) each person with parental responsibility for the child or young person concerned; and
 - (c) the parties to the proceeding in the court in which the decision to transfer the order or proceeding was made.

163 Effect of registration

- (1) A child care and protection order registered in the court under this Part—
 - (a) is for all purposes (except for appeal) a care and protection order of the relevant type made by the court on the day it is registered; and
 - (b) may be varied or revoked, or the period of the order extended, or a contravention of it dealt with, under this Act.
- (2) An interim order registered in the court under this Part—
 - (a) is for all purposes (except for appeal) an interim short care and protection order made by the court on the day it is registered; and

Part 6.5 Miscellaneous

165 Effect of registration of transferred order

- (b) may have regard to the transcript of, or evidence presented in, the proceeding mentioned in paragraph (a).

168 Disclosure of information

- (1) The child welfare officer may disclose to an interstate officer information that has come to the child welfare officer's notice in the exercise of functions under this Act if the child welfare officer considers it necessary to disclose the information to allow the interstate officer to exercise functions under a child welfare law or an interstate law.

178 Search and seizure

The child welfare officer or a police officer may enter on land or on or into premises or a vessel or vehicle, and may search for and seize anything that he or she reasonably believes to be connected with an offence against this Act that is found on the land, or on or in the premises, vessel or vehicle if, and only if, the search and seizure is made by the child welfare officer or police officer—

- (a) under a warrant issued under section 179; or
- (b) in circumstances of seriousness and urgency, in accordance with section 180; or
- (c) after obtaining the consent of the occupier of the land or premises or of the person in charge of the vessel or vehicle to the entry.

179 Search warrants

- (1) If an information on oath is laid before a magistrate alleging that there are reasonable grounds for suspecting that there may be on any land or on or in any premises, vessel or vehicle a thing of a particular kind connected with a particular offence against a provision of this Act, and the information sets out those grounds, a magistrate may issue a search warrant authorising the person named in the warrant, with reasonable and necessary assistance and the force that is necessary and reasonable—
 - (a) to enter on the land or on or into the premises, vessel or vehicle; and
 - (b) to search the land, premises, vessel or vehicle for things of that kind; and
 - (c) to seize anything of that kind found on the land or on or in the premises, vessel or vehicle that he or she reasonably believes to be connected with that offence.
- (2) A magistrate may not issue a warrant under subsection (1) unless—

 - (b) whether entry is authorised to be made at any time of the day or night or during stated hours of the day or night; and
 - (c) a description of the kind of things authorised to be seized; and
 - (d) the date, not later than one month after the date of issue of the warrant, when the warrant ceases to have effect.

180 Entry in emergencies

The child welfare officer or a police officer may enter on any land, or on or into any premises, vessel or vehicle, on or in which the child welfare officer or police officer reasonably believes that anything connected with an offence against this Act is situated and may search for and seize any such thing that he or she finds in the course of that search, or on the land or on or in the premises, vessel or vehicle, if—

- (a) the child welfare officer or police officer reasonably believes that it is necessary to do so for this Act; and
- (b) the search or entry is made in circumstances of such seriousness and urgency as to require and justify immediate search or entry without the authority of a warrant issued.

181 Consent to entry

- (1) Before obtaining the consent of someone for section 178(c)—the child welfare officer or police officer must tell the person that the person may refuse to give his or her consent.

 - (a) that the person has been told that he or she may refuse to give his or her consent; and
 - (b) that the person has given his or her consent; and
 - (c) of the day and time when the person gave his or her consent.
- (3) Entry by the child welfare officer or a police officer following the consent of a person is not lawful unless the person voluntarily consented to the entry.
- (4) If it is material, in a proceeding—
 - (a) for a court to be satisfied of the voluntary consent of someone for section 178(c); and
 - (b) an acknowledgment, in accordance with subsection (2), signed by the person is not provided in evidence;

the court must assume, unless the contrary is proved, that the person did not voluntarily give consent.

182 Power to conduct personal search of child or young person

- (1) In this section:

personal search means a search of a child or young person or of articles in the possession of a child or young person that may include—

- (2) This section applies to a child or young person—

- (a) who is under a therapeutic protection order; or
 - (b) who is detained at a shelter or hospital because he or she has been charged with an offence and not admitted to bail.
- (3) A personal search of a child or young person to whom this section applies may only be conducted if—

 - (g) may not involve a search of a child's or young person's body cavities; and

- (h) may not involve the removal of more garments than the child welfare officer conducting the search reasonably believes to be necessary to decide whether the person has in his or her possession the thing searched for; and
 - (j) may not involve more visual inspection than the child welfare officer reasonably believes to be necessary to decide whether the child or young person has a thing of the type sought on his or her body.
- (2) For subsection (1)(b), if a personal search of a child or young person is to be conducted and the child welfare officer is not of the same sex as the child or young person, anyone else of the same sex as the child or young person who has been requested to conduct the search by the child welfare officer may conduct the search.
 - (3) No action or proceeding, civil or criminal, lies against someone who conducts a personal search on request under subsection (2) if the search would have been lawful if conducted by the child welfare officer.
 - (4) Despite subsection (1)(c), a personal search may be conducted in the presence of a medical practitioner of the opposite sex to the child or young person searched if a medical practitioner of the same sex as the child or young person is not available within a reasonable time.
 - (5) Subsection (1)(d) does not apply to someone with parental responsibility for, or a personal representative of, the child or young person being searched if the child or young person has no objection to the person being present.
 - (6) If a garment of a child or young person is seized as a result of a personal search, the child or young person is to be provided with adequate clothing.
 - (7) However, if a child or young person who is a transgender or intersex person is searched under section 183, the child or young person may require that the search be conducted by either a male or a female.
Note 1 For the meaning of transgender person, see dictionary.
Note 2 For the meaning of intersex person, see dictionary.

- (2) The child welfare officer is responsible for the safekeeping of anything seized as a result of a personal search of a child or young person.
- (3) The child welfare officer must, when the child or young person from whom a thing was seized is released from therapeutic protection or from detention at the shelter, take reasonable steps to return the thing to the child or young person or, if the child or young person is not entitled to possession, to the owner of the thing.

- (4) However, the child welfare officer is not required to return to a child or young person a thing that, in the possession of the child or young person, is likely—
