

COMPETITION AND CONSUMER ACT 2010

Variation and extension of declaration under sections 152AL, 152ALA and 152AO –
Domestic transmission capacity service – 2024

1. Pursuant to sections 152AL, 152ALA and 152AO of the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 (the CCA), and with effect from, 1 April 2024 the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) varies and extends the domestic transmission capacity service (DTCS) declaration which took effect from 1 April 2019 under section 152AL of the CCA (the DTCS declaration) by deleting Annexure 1 and Annexure 2 to the DTCS declaration and replacing them with Annexure 1 and Annexure 2 to this instrument.
2. Annexure 1 to this instrument will apply from 1 April 2024 to 30 November 2025. Annexure 2 to this instrument will apply from 1 December 2025 to 31 March 2029.
3. Pursuant to subsection 152ALA(1) of the CCA, the expiry of the DTCS declaration is 31 March 2029.

Commissioner

Australian Competition and Consumer Commission

Dated: 26 March 2024

Annexure 1: DTCS Service Description

The domestic transmission capacity service (DTCS) is a service for the carriage of certain communications from one transmission point to another transmission point via symmetric network interfaces on a permanent uncontended basis by means of guided and/or unguided electromagnetic energy.

The DTCS may be provided via an online ordering tool and with enhanced service monitoring where these services are available.

The DTCS is supplied at low, mid-range and high capacities on or over:

- inter-capital routes
- regional routes
- metropolitan routes
- tail-end routes, and
- routes to mobile base stations except communications between:

- (a) one customer transmission point directly to another customer transmission point
- (b) one access seeker network location directly to another access seeker network location
- (c) in the case of inter-capital routes, a transmission point located at an exchange in a deregulated exchange service area within one capital city boundary to a transmission point located at an exchange in a deregulated exchange service area within another capital city boundary
Note: Refer to Table 1 for the exchange serving areas (exchange service areas) which are deregulated in each capital city and Table 3 for the boundaries of each capital city.
- (d) in the case of regional routes, a transmission point located at an exchange in a deregulated regional exchange service area to a transmission point located at an exchange in a deregulated exchange service area in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane or Adelaide

Note: Refer to Table 1 for the exchange service areas which are deregulated in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane and Adelaide. Refer to Table 2 for the list of deregulated regional exchange service areas.

- (e) in the case of metropolitan routes, transmission points located at an exchange between:
  1. any of the deregulated metropolitan exchange service areas in Sydney
  2. any of the deregulated metropolitan exchange service areas in Brisbane
  3. any of the deregulated metropolitan exchange service areas in Melbourne
  4. any of the deregulated metropolitan exchange service areas in Perth, or
  5. any of the deregulated metropolitan exchange service areas in Adelaide.

Note: Refer to Table 1 for the exchange service areas which are deregulated in each capital city.

The exceptions in paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) do not apply to any service that is comprised of an inter-capital, regional or metropolitan route that is bundled with or incorporates a tail-end route.

Definitions

Where words or phrases used in this Annexure are defined in the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 or the Telecommunications Act 1997, they have the meaning given in those Acts.

an access seeker network location is a point in a network operated by a service provider that is not a point of interconnection or a customer transmission point.

customer transmission point is a point at which a service provider delivers a service to its own customers (either wholesale or retail). For the avoidance of doubt, a customer in this context may be another service provider

exchange means a telecommunications exchange and includes the land, buildings and facilities (within the meaning of section 7 of the Telecommunications Act 1997 (Cth)) that comprise or form part of the exchange

exchange serving area or ESA means the area served from a traditional local exchange building

high capacity is a transmission rate of 1 Gigabit per second (Gbps) and above inter-capital route means a route from a transmission point within one capital city boundary to a transmission point within another capital city boundary in Adelaide, Brisbane, Canberra, Melbourne, Perth or Sydney. Capital city boundaries are listed in Table 3 low capacity is a transmission rate of and between 2 Megabits per second (Mbps) and 10 Mbps

mid-range capacity is a transmission rate between, but not including, 10 Mbps and 1 Gbps metropolitan route means a route where both the transmission points for the beginning and end of the route are within the same capital city boundary. Capital city boundaries are listed in Table 3

Mobile base station means a mobile phone radiocommunications transmitter and its associated infrastructure including any antennas, housings and other equipment

network interfaces include, but are not limited to, Ethernet, Plesiochronous Digital Hierarchy (PDH) and Synchronous Digital Hierarchy (SDH) network interfaces used to provide a transmission rate of 2.048 Mbps or above which an access provider provides to itself or others

ongoing technical support means support by an expert technical team

a point of interconnection is the nearest designated physical point of interconnection in Australia between a network operated by a transmission service provider and another network operated by an access seeker (this includes a third carrier or carriage service provider where the third party supplies a transmission service directly to the access seeker)

regional route means a route where either one or both of the transmission points for the beginning and end of the route are outside a capital city boundary. Capital city boundaries are listed in Table 3

service monitoring means the monitoring of faults by an access provider

tail-end route means a route where both the transmission points for the beginning and end of the route are within the same ESAs

a transmission point is any of the following:

- (a) a point of interconnection
- (a) a customer transmission point
- (b) an access seeker network location

uncontended means dedicated and not shared

Annexure 2: DTCS Service Description

The domestic transmission capacity service (DTCS) is a Layer-2 service for the carriage of communications in the digital form, from one transmission point to another transmission point, via a symmetric Ethernet network interface by means of guided and/or unguided electromagnetic energy.

The DTCS may be provided via an online ordering tool and with enhanced service monitoring where these services are available.

The DTCS is supplied at 10 Megabits per second or above, on or over:

- (b) tail-end routes that are in a regulated tail-end ESA, including a route that is bundled with or incorporates a tail-end where the tail-end is in a regulated tail-end ESA

Note: Refer to Table 1 for the tail-end ESAs which are regulated in each State and Territory.

- (c) any route where one or both of the transmission points are located in a regulated route ESA

Note: Refer to Table 2 for the route ESAs which are regulated in each State and Territory.

except communications between:

- (d) one customer transmission point directly to another customer transmission point
- (e) one access seeker network location directly to another access seeker network location.

Definitions

Where words or phrases used in this Annexure are defined in the Competition and Consumer Act 2010 or the Telecommunications Act 1997, they have the meaning given in those Acts.

exchange means a telecommunications exchange and includes the land, buildings and facilities (within the meaning of section 7 of the Telecommunications Act 1997 (Cth)) that comprise or form part of the exchange

Other definitions

an access seeker network location is a point in a network operated by a service provider that is not a point of interconnection or a customer transmission point

a customer transmission point is a point at which a service provider delivers a service to its own customers (either wholesale or retail). For the avoidance of doubt, a customer in this context may be another service provider

Ethernet means the standards defined by the Institute of Electrical and Electronics in the Institute of Electrical and Electronics 802.3 series of specifications

exchange serving area or ESA means the area served from a local exchange building

Layer-2 refers to the second layer of the Open Systems Interconnection (OSI) model

mobile base station means a mobile phone radiocommunications transmitter and its associated infrastructure including any antennas, housings and other equipment

a point of interconnection is the nearest designated physical point of interconnection in Australia between a network operated by a transmission service provider and another network operated by an access seeker (this includes a third carrier or carriage service provider where the third party supplies a transmission service directly to the access seeker)

service monitoring means the monitoring of faults by an access provider

a tail-end route means a route where both the transmission points for the beginning and end of the route are within the same ESA

a transmission point is any of the following:

- a) a point of interconnection
- b) a customer transmission point
- c) an access seeker network location
