PART 2: CEREMONIAL DRESS

4 Ceremonial Dress: Chancellor

4.1 The ceremonial dress of the Chancellor is to be an ankle length robe made from black figured damask, with front facings 105mm wide at the shoulder and 130mm at the hemline and with a collar measuring approximately 340mm wide and 180mm deep at the back.

4.2 The back of the robe is to be pleated into the yoke and is to have a short train with a centre slit to knee height with sleeves that are long and fitted, closed and straight at the lower edge.

4.3 The robe is to be trimmed with gold lace of the oakleaf design as follows:

- the facings, collar, hemline and centre back slit are to be trimmed with gold lace 48mm wide;
- there is to be a diamond shaped pattern in 48mm gold lace at the top of the back slit;
- each armhole is to be a horizontal slit at the elbow with a 250mm vertical slit atop, all trimmed with 20mm gold lace with pointed edges;
- there are to be 11 gold lace bars, each 40mm wide, on each sleeve;
- the sleeve openings are to be trimmed with gold lace 20mm wide.

4.4 With this robe is to be worn either:

- (a) a black velvet trencher, the crown being trimmed with gold oakleaf lace 20mm wide and a beehive gold covered button, affixed to the centre of the crown, from which hangs a gold bullion tassel 250mm in length; or
- (b) a round black velvet bonnet, the edge of the brim of which is trimmed with gold ornamental braid, and a flat button, covered with gold oakleaf lace, is affixed to the centre of the crown, and the bonnet is worn with a gold cord and tassels.

5 Ceremonial dress: Pro-Chancellor

5.1 The ceremonial dress of the Pro-Chancellor is to be a robe of black damask fabric, made in the same style as worn by the Chancellor, also of ankle length, but trimmed with silver lace of the oakleaf design, in the same manner and dimensions as the Chancellor's robe.

5.2 This robe does not have a train.

5.3 With this robe is to be worn either a black velvet trencher, or a round black velvet bonnet with silver cord and tassels, trimmed the same as for the Chancellor, but in silver.

6 Ceremonial dress: Vice-Chancellor

6.1 The ceremonial dress of the Vice-Chancellor is to be a gown of black damask fabric that is approximately mid calf in length with the back and sleeves of the gown tightly gathered.

6.2 The sleeves of this gown are to have a boot of the same design as the Master gown.

6.3 The gown is to be trimmed on the front and at the back of the neck with gold lace 60mm wide of the oakleaf design and the sleeve openings are also to be trimmed in gold oakleaf lace 20mm wide.

6.4 With this gown is to be worn either:

- (a) a black velvet trencher, the crown being trimmed with gold oakleaf lace 20mm wide and a beehive gold covered button, affixed to the centre of the crown, from which hangs a gold bullion tassel 250mm in length; or
- (b) a round black velvet bonnet, the edge of the brim of which is trimmed with gold ornamental braid, and a flat button, covered with gold oakleaf lace, is affixed to the centre of the crown, and the bonnet is worn with a gold cord and tassels.

7 Ceremonial dress: Deputy Vice-Chancellor

7.1 The ceremonial dress of the Deputy Vice-Chancellor is to be a gown of black damask fabric, made in the same style as worn by the Vice-Chancellor but trimmed with silver lace of the oakleaf design and in the same manner and dimensions as for the Vice-Chancellor.

7.2 With this gown is to be worn either a black velvet trencher, or a round black velvet bonnet with silver cord and tassels, trimmed the same as for the Vice-Chancellor, but in silver.

8 Ceremonial dress: University Marshal

8.1 The ceremonial dress of the University Marshal is to be a gown of sapphire cloth with gathering at the back yoke and on the sleeves, in the style of a Bachelor gown but with elongated sleeves.

8.2 The 120mm front facings of this gown are in old gold and the inside of the gown and the inside of the elongated sleeves are also fully lined in the same gold.

8.3 This gown, which closes at the neckline, is adorned with a special design high collar and is fastened at the neckline with gold ornamentation.

8.4 With this gown is to be worn a round black velvet bonnet trimmed with blue and gold cord and tassels.

9 Ceremonial dress: Deputy Marshal

9.1 The ceremonial dress of the Deputy Marshal is to be a Bachelor gown of sapphire cloth with 100mm front facings of old gold which extend around the neckline.

9.2 With this gown is to be worn a round black velvet bonnet trimmed with blue and gold cord and tassels.

10 Ceremonial dress: Esquire Bedel

10.1 The ceremonial dress of the Esquire Bedel is to be a Master gown of black corded silk, the sleeve openings of which are trimmed with 45mm gold oak leaf lace.

10.2 A collar of black brocade which is edged with 45mm gold oak leaf lace is attached to the back of this gown.

10.3 With this gown is to be worn a round black velvet bonnet trimmed with gold cord and tassels, a jabot consisting of 2 tabs on a collar and white wrist length gloves.

11 Ceremonial dress: members of Council

11.1 The ceremonial dress of a member of the Council is to be a Master gown with 115mm of silver silk on the front facing.

11.2 The back collar of this gown is faced around all sides with 100mm of the same silver silk.

11.3 An embroidered University badge is attached to the left hand front facing of the gown and is positioned 100mm down from the front yoke seam.

11.4 A round black velvet bonnet trimmed with silver cord and silver tassels is to be worn.

11.5 However, nothing in this clause prevents a member of Council from wearing, as ceremonial dress, any academic dress to which the person may be entitled.

12 Ceremonial dress: Chancellor's party

12.1 The ceremonial dress of the Head of each ANU College, directors of faculties, research schools and schools mentioned in subrule 7.3 of the Membership of the Council Rules, directors of University Centres, heads of residential Halls and Colleges, and other members of the Chancellor's party is to be:

- (a) a gown of black cloth in the style of the University's higher doctorate gown with 100mm of silver silk on the front facing extending around the neckline, and with bell shaped sleeves, the lower three-quarters of which faced with silver cloth; and
- (b) a round black velvet bonnet trimmed with blue cord and blue tassels.

12.2 However, nothing in this clause prevents a member of the Chancellor's party from wearing, as ceremonial dress, any academic dress to which the person may be entitled.

13 Ceremonial dress: academic staff and invited members of academic procession

13.1 The ceremonial dress of the academic staff and invited members of the academic procession is to be any academic dress to which the person may be entitled, or:

- (a) a Master gown with 100mm of blue silk on the front facing or a Master gown with a silver stole 100mm in width; and
- (b) a round black velvet bonnet trimmed with blue cord and blue tassels may be worn.

14 Ceremonial dress: guest speakers at conferring ceremonies

14.1 The ceremonial dress of a guest speaker at a conferring of degrees ceremony is to be as for members of the Chancellor's party.

14.2 However, nothing in this clause prevents a guest speaker from wearing, as ceremonial dress, any academic dress to which the person may be entitled.

15 Ceremonial dress: members of general staff

15.1 The ceremonial dress of members of the general staff is to be a Bachelor gown with which a trencher of black cloth with a black tassel may be worn.

15.2 However nothing in this clause prevents a member of the general staff from wearing, as ceremonial dress, any academic dress to which the person may be entitled.

PART 3: ACADEMIC DRESS

16 Interpretation: Part 3 and Schedules

16.1 To avoid doubt, in this Part or in a Schedule, a reference to:

- (a) a hood fully lined or faced with a single colour on the inside is a reference to a hood that is fully lined or edged on the posterior side of the hood with the colour of the award; and
- (b) a hood fully lined or faced with 2 colours on the inside is a reference to a hood on which the first named colour is innermost with the second colour outermost on the posterior side of the hood; and
- (c) a hood fully lined or faced with 3 colours on the inside is a reference to a hood on which the second named colour is between the first and third named colours, the third named colour being outermost on the posterior side of the hood.

17 Academic dress: graduates (higher doctorates)

17.1 The academic dress of a graduate of the University, being awarded or holding a higher doctorate, is to be:
