The object of the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Act 1998 (the ARPANS Act) is to protect the health and safety of people, and to protect the environment, from the harmful effects of radiation.

The object of the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 (the EPBC Act) is, amongst other things, to provide for the protection of the environment, especially those aspects of the environment that are matters of national environmental significance and to assist in the co- operative implementation of Australia's international environmental responsibilities.

Subsection 85(1) of the Act provides that the Governor-General may make regulations prescribing matters required or permitted by the Act to be prescribed; or necessary or convenient to be prescribed for carrying out or giving effect to the Act.

Section 520 of the EPBC Act provides that the Governor General may make regulations prescribing matters required or permitted by the Act to be prescribed; or necessary or convenient to be prescribed for carrying out or giving effect to the Act.

The purpose of the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety (Repeal and Consequential Amendments) Regulations 2018 (the proposed Regulations) is to repeal the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Regulations 1999 (ARPANS Regulations) and to make consequential amendments to the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Regulations 2000 replacing references in those regulations to the ARPANS Regulations with references to the remade Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Regulations 2018.

The regulations are a legislative instrument for the purposes of the Legislation Act 2003.

The regulations commenced on the day after being registered on the Federal Register of Legislation.

Details of the regulations are set out in the Attachment A. A Statement of Compatibility with Human Rights is at Attachment B.

The regulations were brought forward concurrently with the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Regulations 2018 and the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety (Licence Charges) Regulations 2018.

Neither the Act nor the EPBC Act specifies any condition that needs to be met before the power to make the regulations may be exercised.

Consultation:

The Department of the Environment and Energy was consulted and was comfortable with the proposed amendments.

Authority: Section 6 of the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety (Licence Charges) Act 1998
